Following the success of the publication of its inaugural volume, Re:locations: Journal of the Asia-Pacific World is recruiting undergraduate and graduate students for its editorial board. Students from a variety of academic backgrounds with an interest in the Asia-Pacific are encouraged to apply. This is an excellent opportunity for interested students to learn about the publication and peer review process.

Editors are responsible for editing submissions for the Re:locations online academic forum. Senior Editors are responsible for the internal review and editing of journal articles, finding appropriate peer reviewers, and ensuring the smooth functioning of the journal's peer-review process. Writing and editing experience is an advantage, but not a requirement as all new editors are supported by the journal manager and returning editors.

If you are interested in applying for a position as an editor or senior editor, please send a brief cover letter outlining your interest and expertise, as well as a curriculum vitae, to relocationsjournal@gmail.com
